The Summer Garden Series is an active, intense, attention to the garden as a life form, an attempt to capture the adventure of experience. Rather than create an image of a perfect moment or subject, I focus on capturing the garden in the way that my eye experiences it. I look at a small part of the garden and I see one thing, then notice another, then another.

Take your time and build a bridge. It takes longer and doesn't look particularly "sexy" but this is the way to build things that last — not by taking a giant leap but by building a bridge. Build a bridge before you take a leap.

Don't Take the Leap, Build a Bridge to Your Dreams

Mind you, it's essentially taking up one entire wall in storage, but I was confident that was worth the compromise. When I redesigned my basement, I negotiated with our contractor regarding the game room. I realized that, given that I had the plans already, so it would be a simple matter of asking my contractor to build the table too.

The key to unlocking your potential isn't in training harder or doing more sophisticated workouts. It's in thinking better about your training. Think better, train better. Make the Leap provides athletes and coaches a step-by-step guide to thinking more effectively about all aspects of training. It first explains exactly what a Leap Cycle is and why some athletes make a leap while others don't. It then systematically breaks down--via 11 Optimal Training Principles and 4 mental model spotlights--the attitudes and behaviors that the top performers use to think better about their training. Some of the key concepts in the book include: - Why leaps happen (and how to generate one) - The Build - Leap - Sustain "Leap Cycle" of improvement - The Momentum Model and how to identify what is holding you back - The importance of attitude and mindset - Engagement and revealing the Hidden Training Program - Systems vs Purposeful Practice and when to implement them - North Star goals vs Next Step goals - Using Next Level 80/20 thinking to prioritize your training - Understanding Risk and Reward in performances - And more! Coaches, Olympians, and everyday runners agree: Make the Leap will help you think better, train better, and run faster. "Make the Leap will transform how you think about your training, which in turn will transform your entire running experience. If you feel you have untapped potential, read

An inspiring memoir by England netball star and Commonwealth Games gold medallist Geva Mentor. Includes an exclusive 15% discount code for Gilbert Netball Geva Mentor is the best netballer in the world. In her honest, open and inspiring autobiography, Leap, she sheds light on her journey to the top. As a child Geva was a naturally gifted athlete, standing out at 5'10" at the age of twelve. She began life as a champion trampolinist, but when she outgrew the sport, literally, she found she had to try something new. This led her to basketball, but the boys on the other teams complained - she was just too good. Making up the numbers for an impromptu netball match one day at the age of thirteen she found her home in netball - or rather it found her. From here, Geva's rise amongst the ranks of British netball was stratospheric, she was playing for the England senior team when she was just fifteen years old. Taking risks and forging the way for other athletes Geva moved to Australia to develop her game by playing in the best league in the world and eventually winning Commonwealth gold with the England Roses. However, it's not all been easy, both on and off the court, and Geva talks honestly about her personal life, and how the difficulties and failures of her teams, both international and domestic, have driven her on to achieve the highest possible success in the sport.

processes, and also provides knowledge exploitation solutions to support design decisions. This book not only explains in detail what LEAP is and how to use it, but also provides LEAP case studies from sectors such as auto manufacturing and offshore engineering. The intensity of competition in the global manufacturing industry has increased dramatically in the past decade, presenting challenges and opportunities to new operators and traditional centers alike. Using the latest ICT developments effectively is increasingly important in order to meet demands for mass customization, sustainability, and improved productivity. To achieve these goals, the Linked Engineering and manufacturing Platform (LEAP) was developed as an integrated information system for manufacturing design. Discusses how LEAP creates a new data environment for all stakeholders in the manufacturing industry, which will improve
